Part Time Book Coordinator

About Open Books

Mission
To transform lives through reading, writing, and the unlimited power of books

History
Open Books is a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization focused on child and family literacy in Chicago. Open Books launched in 2006 with a simple idea – to collect used books and sell them to support youth literacy in Chicago. Since then, Open Books’ programs have boosted the skills and confidence of thousands of Chicago youth, from birth to 12th grade, as readers and writers. From among the book donations Open Books collects – nearly 2 million books annually – staff and volunteers work with parents, teachers, schools, and other community-based organizations to grant books to youth that lack access. To date, across Chicago, Open Books has impacted nearly 45,000 children and youth through its literacy programs and granted over 1 million carefully-curated books across the city. Our bookstores are community hubs that not only support local neighborhoods but also give all Chicagoans access to affordable books.

Core Values
Open Books’ core values work in tandem to guide everything we do, including Board recruitment and management. As mutually-reinforcing beliefs, these values serve as our north star as we serve children and families through formative literacy experiences.

- Accountability: We fulfill the commitments we make to ourselves and those we make together with communities, admit our shortcomings, and learn from our mistakes.
- Collaboration: We commit to listening to and working with others, as well as acting to meet the needs we identify together as a means of collective impact.
- Empowerment: We seek, through literacy experiences and resources, to amplify the voices, talents, and stories of others, especially those who are marginalized and often overlooked.
- Ingenuity: We take creative risks by using new ideas to tackle challenges and evolve how we serve others.
- Respect: We value the dignity, humanity, and diversity of perspectives of all individuals and work to reflect this in all our interactions.

Open Books stands against hate and discrimination in any form. We exist in solidarity with all communities and peoples impacted by the injustices of racism, classism, sexism, homophobia, and bigotry. We commit to creating barrier-free education experiences, rooted in literacy, and encourage feedback from anyone in the Open Books family as to how we can continually improve toward a more just environment.

Position Summary
Open Books is seeking a part-time Book Coordinator to join our team in the Pilsen warehouse to help grow our e-commerce and store sales, and further Open Books’ mission.

Job Type: Part Time
Reports to: Book Operations Manager

Position Responsibilities
- Driving the Open Books van around Chicago roughly 10 hours per week to pick up books from donors and make occasional deliveries of books and supplies
- Assisting with daily store processes and procedures, including, but not limited to, open/close, customer service, shelf stocking, inventory curation and turn, cash register/check out, cleaning and display management
- Contributing to our book and ecommerce operations, including, but not limited to, online order fulfillment, inventory management, and accepting and processing book donations
- Maintaining awareness of the bookselling industry, and local book market, using this knowledge to help refine and improve store and ecommerce inventory, operations, and initiatives
- Sorting books for possible grants and other contributions to our mission
- Assisting in executing events in store and off site
- Customer service via email and phone, and in person

Qualifications
- Organized and detail-oriented
- Strong interest in books
- Proficient with Google Suite (Gmail, Drive, Forms, Docs, Sheets, etc.)
- Strong verbal and written communication skills
- Motivated and enthusiastic about Open Books’ mission and programs
- Ability to transport heavy boxes and other materials (up to 60 lbs.)
- Valid driver’s license for use of the Open Books van for pickups and deliveries
- Bilingual English/Spanish is strongly preferred, but not required

Work Environment
- Primarily on-site work in our Pilsen warehouse and bookstore
- Off-site work in the organization’s van(s)
- Occasional off-site work at our other locations and programmatic events
- Weekend hours
- 24 hour work week

Compensation & Benefits
- Entry level position with a starting wage of $20.00/hour
- Accrued paid-time-off (PTO) days, in addition to federal and other holidays
- 25% off all book purchases + monthly free books

To apply: Fill out the online application (including resume upload) no later than April 5th, 2024.